

Contribution Uses and Restrictions

What is a contribution?

(§ 130.011(12), RSMo)

Contributions are donations of money or anything of value given to support or oppose a candidate or ballot measure. There are two kinds of contributions:

- A monetary contribution is money contributed to support or oppose candidates or ballot measures. Examples include checks, cash, loans, advances, and a candidate's own money used in support of their candidacy (with specific exceptions noted in the law).
- An in-kind contribution is anything of value, other than money, given to support or oppose candidates or ballot measures. Examples include, but are not limited to: gifts, office supplies, discounts, etc.

What is not a contribution?

- Ordinary hospitality or services provided without compensation by volunteers.
- Interest earned on committee funds.
- A direct expenditure made by a PAC or political party committee without a candidate committee's coordination or consultation.
- Costs incurred by a connected organization to maintain a committee or solicit contributions.

Lobbyists Dissolving Committee Funds

(§§ 105.465 and 130.097.2, RSMo)

Anyone who registers as a lobbyist and also has a candidate committee must dissolve the candidate committee and disburse all money of the committee by:

- Returning a contribution to the original contributor;
- Donating to a 501(c)(3) nonprofit entity; or
- Transferring funds to a political party committee.

Lobbyists cannot transfer funds from a committee they control to another committee controlled by a candidate or public official.
